I met Autumn when I taught a Creative Writing course for Carteret Community College. Since then, I've discovered that she is not only a skilled and talented writer but someone who encourages others to write. She's taken a leadership role in our local Carteret Writers group, helping to re-energize the organization, teach workshops, and organize an extremely successful Writers' Conference. I've been so impressed with Autumn, that as president of the Carteret County Chamber of Commerce, I recruited her to serve on our board of directors. I'm looking forward to seeing what other good things Autumn has in store for this county.
